Property Description

The first month of 2026 has delivered unequivocal confirmation of Thailand’s tourism sector strength, with official figures revealing that 2,625,921 foreign visitors arrived between January 1-25, generating an impressive ?129.
9 billion in tourism revenue.
These numbers represent not merely statistical recovery from pandemic-era disruptions, but a genuine surge that positions Thailand for what many industry observers believe will be a record-breaking year for international arrivals.
What distinguishes these January figures from mere seasonal performance is the composition and spending patterns of arriving tourists, metrics that carry significant implications for property investors evaluating Thailand’s coastal markets.
The data reveals a market increasingly dominated by higher-value visitors whose extended stays and elevated spending create sustained demand for quality accommodation—precisely the demographic most relevant to property
