Property Description

Thailand’s decision to extend the 30-day visa exemption for Indian passport holders through December 2026 represents one of the most strategically significant tourism policy developments in recent years, opening pathways for travelers from a nation of 1.
4 billion people to visit the Kingdom without visa bureaucracy.
For property investors evaluating Thailand’s coastal markets, this policy extension signals the emergence of a massive new demand source with distinctive characteristics that merit careful consideration.
India has ascended rapidly through Thailand’s tourism source market rankings, now claiming position among the top five arrival markets.
The visa exemption extension ensures this trajectory continues, with airline capacity additions already announced for routes connecting India’s major cities with Thai destinations.
The Bangalore-Phuket and Mumbai-Krabi routes represent merely the beginning
